

Nguyen Minh Ha

Nguyen Tri Phuong Hospital, Vietnam

Dr NGUYEN MINH HA is currently the head of the Laboratory Department at Nguyen Tri Phuong Hospital in Ho Chi Minh city, Vietnam. She is also the deputy head of Medical Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Department of Pham Ngoc Thach University of Medicine, Vietnam.

Graduating from Pham Ngoc Thach University of Medicine at Ho Chi Minh city, Dr Nguyen Minh Ha finished the training course on medical molecular biology in Belgium and received her Ph.D from Hanoi Medical University in 2015 with the thesis "Detection of EGFR and KRAS mutation related to responsiveness of targeted therapy in non-small cell lung cancer".

Being not only a laboratory doctor and a lecturer as well, she is interested in researches, the apply of these results in laboratory work and teaching work. In more than 10 years, she has joined to write three textbooks and published more than 20 scientific articles in some medical journals in the country. Dr Nguyen Minh Ha is currently a member of executive committee of Vietnamese Association of Clinical Biochemists, vice chairman of Ho Chi Minh City Society of Medical Biochemistry and chairman of the Ethics Council of Nguyen Tri Phuong Hospital.