

Yong-jun Choi

Department of Social and Preventive Medicine, Hallym University College of Medicine, Korea

He is currently a professor of the Department of Social and Preventive Medicine at Hallym University College of Medicine in Chuncheon, Gangwon-do, South Korea. He received his Ph.D. in health policy and management from the Seoul National University in South Korea. His research interests have focused on studies of the primary care. More recently he concentrated on the health care for the disabled.